Ephesians - inductive study using Grasping God's Word

In Ephesians, Paul discusses our position in Christ and explains doctrines of the faith followed by practical application for how to live, daily, in light of those truths. This is a “How to study the Bible” course. Ladies can expect to learn how to breakdown a passage of Scripture in a way that makes it easier to ask the important questions. We want to understand what is being said to the original audience, what similarities or differences we share with them, what Biblical truths/principles are presented, how those principles fit in the context of the surrounding passages and the Bible as a whole, and finally, what all of that means for us today in our own lives.

“Romans: The Glory of the Gospel” –

Lydia Brownback

Why is Romans considered the greatest letter ever written? The Apostle Paul provides the clearest explanation of the gospel and the eternal hope for a humanity marred by sin and death. Through King Jesus, God reveals his righteousness, redeems his people from their sins, and unlocks the floodgates of his mercy.

Colossians - inductive study using Grasping God's Word

In Colossians, Paul explains theology for the first half of the book and gives a marvelous character study of who Christ IS. Then he shifts into a description of how and why who Christ is matters in our everyday relationships with people and how we conduct ourselves to showcase God and His glory. This is a “How to study the Bible” course. Ladies can expect to learn how to breakdown a passage of Scripture in a way that makes it easier to ask the important questions. We want to understand what is being said to the original audience, what similarities or differences we share with them, what Biblical truths/principles are presented, how those principles fit in the context of the surrounding passages and the Bible as a whole, and finally, what all of that means for us today in our own lives.
